Featured Speakers

Sue Wadden, Director of Color Marketing,
The Sherwin-Williams Company
10:30am | Suite 104

Sue Wadden is Sherwin-Williams director of color marketing for the Paint Stores Group. As the expert on color for Sherwin-Williams, she is responsible for the company's overall philosophy of color leadership and plays a key role in leading world color trend forecasting.

This course will take the participant on a visual journey with stimulating imagery, factual statistics and perceptive research that supports the 2019 forecast for color and design trends. We will explore the drivers influencing future color and design trends that include global, technological, historic, psychological and economic factors that shaped our forecast. This year's 42-color palette can be divided into six themes, or color journals: Shapeshifter, Wanderer, Aficionado, Enthusiast, Naturalist and Raconteur. Together, the journals are fresh, free-spirited and old-world, drawing inspiration from every corner of the globe extending to the cosmos. The result: an organic and spontaneous palette, with fluid swipes of color that are key for 2019 color and design trends.

CEU: 2019 ColorMix Forecast, AIA and IDCEC approved.

Attendees receive 1 CEU.

SPACE IS LIMITED – RSVP EARLY

Laura DeMarco, Author
3pm | Suite 104

Laura DeMarco, author of the 2017 book "Lost Cleveland" and the upcoming "Cleveland Then and Now" (November 2018) will take guests on a visual tour through Cleveland's glorious past and the ghosts that inspire us today. "Lost" places include architectural gems, elegant theaters, famous concert halls and stadiums, grand department stores and bustling factories that helped turn Cleveland into America's fifth biggest city — and one of its most prosperous.

Meet & Greet Book Signing and Cocktail Reception with Laura DeMarco | 4pm – 6pm

Baker Interiors Group (Suite 101)

Laura autographs your copy of her book, "Lost Cleveland", available for sale for $20.00 (cash or credit card). Close out the day at this very special wine reception, chatting with Laura DeMarco about vintage Cleveland.
